Company Profile

Overview

Qberty Holdings is a 100% Black Women Owned and Managed Information Technology Solutions Company. We are a B-BBEE Level 1 compliant company and a value-adding supplier. Driven by a team of highly experienced and passionate professionals with extensive experience, we believe that economic growth, development and empowerment are not only necessary but driven by a complementary process.

Due to servicing different segments, it was necessary to structure our company in such a way that will deliver tailor-made services to different segments because we simply do not believe in a "one size fits all" approach. Qberty Holdings subsidiaries include:

Qberty
IT Solutions

Qberty
Human Capital Management

Qberty
Skills Academy

As a strategic partner, Qberty Holdings helps its clients transform into a truly digital, data-driven enterprise and empowers them to take advantage of the digital revolution to innovate, differentiate and grow. Leveraging cutting-edge technology, Qberty Holdings solutions radically improve performance and reach of client enterprises; delivering accelerated time-to-market for new products and services as well as enhanced customer responsiveness.

Process Automation and Integration

Both business systems integration and business process automation are necessary every so often for a business to expand and streamline its operations. Transferring information efficiently and effectively is critical to business success. Information that moves slowly presents a real risk to business, whereas a system that facilitates the timely transfer of information can constitute a substantial competitive advantage.

Database Development Services

Our database development services will enable your business to centralize data on or off the web. Our experienced database experts will help you select the right database technology and develop a database driven website or a full featured large-scale customer relationship management system that incorporates complex technologies and structure. Our in-depth database development expertise will benefit your business from increased accessibility, improved security, automated backups, greater market reach and maximized return on investment.

Software Development

Software development is a necessity if your business requires a unique software solution to solve your business problem. IT solutions tailored to the specific needs of a business are required more than ever before, not only to maintain competitive advantage, but simply to remain operationally viable. Qberty Holdings can offer you the most apt software development services to best suit your organization's requirements. All you need to do is share your requirements with our experts and we shall conjure up a solution that will be both "best fit" for your current needs and highly scalable for future requirements of your business.

Big data & analytic consulting

In today's dynamic business environment, the ability to quickly collect and accurately analyze the data generated either within the enterprise or gathered from external sources, can be a distinct competitive advantage.

A frequent shift in the way the world operates is forcing businesses to rethink strategies and adapt to the swift streams of change. But with such rapid change, on what do you base decisions? Addressing these new challenges and implementing new strategies requires a new way of looking at your business and operations. Real time report is key and should not be under-estimated.

Testing Service

The emerging Nexus of Forces are compelling enterprises to build robust, efficient and reliable IT systems as numerous applications need to communicate with each other on a real-time basis. Qberty testing & QA services helps enterprises transform their business applications infrastructure for enhanced quality, faster time-to-market, and higher returns on IT investments. Various leading software product companies & ISVs, telecom and BFSI businesses are leveraging our best-in-class testing and QA services. At Qberty Holdings, we provide Data Integration and Data Quality Services to support acquisition, alignment and sharing of data, and Data Quality Services to focus on information governance, master data management and application modernization efforts. We assist our clients with comprehensive data quality solutions for enterprise data such as customers, products and other key business transactions. Our data quality solution methodology ensures that the deployed solution would reduce the efforts and time involved in manual data quality checks and corrections. We design, develop and deploy automated data cleansing, standardization and matching solution components with streamlined data stewardship process which would improve enterprise data quality in terms of completeness, conformance, integrity and consistency.
